On February 13, 2012, the French supervisory authority AMF published a news release to inform about the end of the short selling ban regarding French securities of the financial sector. The regulator has announced that "the provisions prohibiting any creation of a net short position and increase of an existing one in relation to French equity securities of the financial sector came to an end on Saturday 11 February 2012".

The news release is available on the AMF website (www.amf-france.org) and is titled "End of the short selling ban regarding French securities of the financial sector".
