Since publishing Circulars 015/01and 025/01 concerning introduction of options and futures on the Dow Jones Global Titans™ Index, the name of the index has been changed by the Dow Jones Company. The index is now called the Dow Jones Global Titans 50 Index℠.

Consequently, for formal reasons, Circular 025/01 and its attachments, which included the options and futures contract specifications, as well as relevant sections of the Rules and Regulations, have been revised to reflect the change of name.

The modified documents have replaced the web-site copy of Circular 025/01, and will not be re-published here. Thus, the new version can be found at "www.eurexchange.com" under 'info for members > circulars > 2001 > No. 025/2001'.

Please note that the new name 'Dow Jones Global Titans 50 Index℠' refers to the same entity as the former Dow Jones Global Titans™ Index. Thus the underlying of the Eurex derivatives products to be introduced on 23 April, 2001 remains the same as previously specified in all but name.

Please also note that any applications for (designated) market maker licenses which have been returned to Eurex on the earlier application form do not need to be re-submitted; it will be assumed that the application refers to the product with the changed name.

For questions related to the Dow Jones Global Titans 50 Index℠, Mr. Lars Hamich of Dow Jones Indexes is available on Tel: +49-69-9714-2890 (e-mail: lars.hamich@dowjones.com).
